Million Air hosts 3rd annual Girls in Aviation Day at MTH

MARATHON, FL (Sept. 28, 2026) – Fixed base operator Million Air hosted its third annual Girls in Aviation Day event on Saturday, Sept. 19, at the Florida Keys Marathon International Airport.

The free event was hosted in the Million Air hangar with Brook Bezanis, Customer Service Manager at Million Air Florida Keys, organizing the event, according to a news release from Monroe County Airports Marketing and Communications Manager Katie Atkins.

Bezanis said it was the most well-attended Girls in Aviation event held in Marathon.

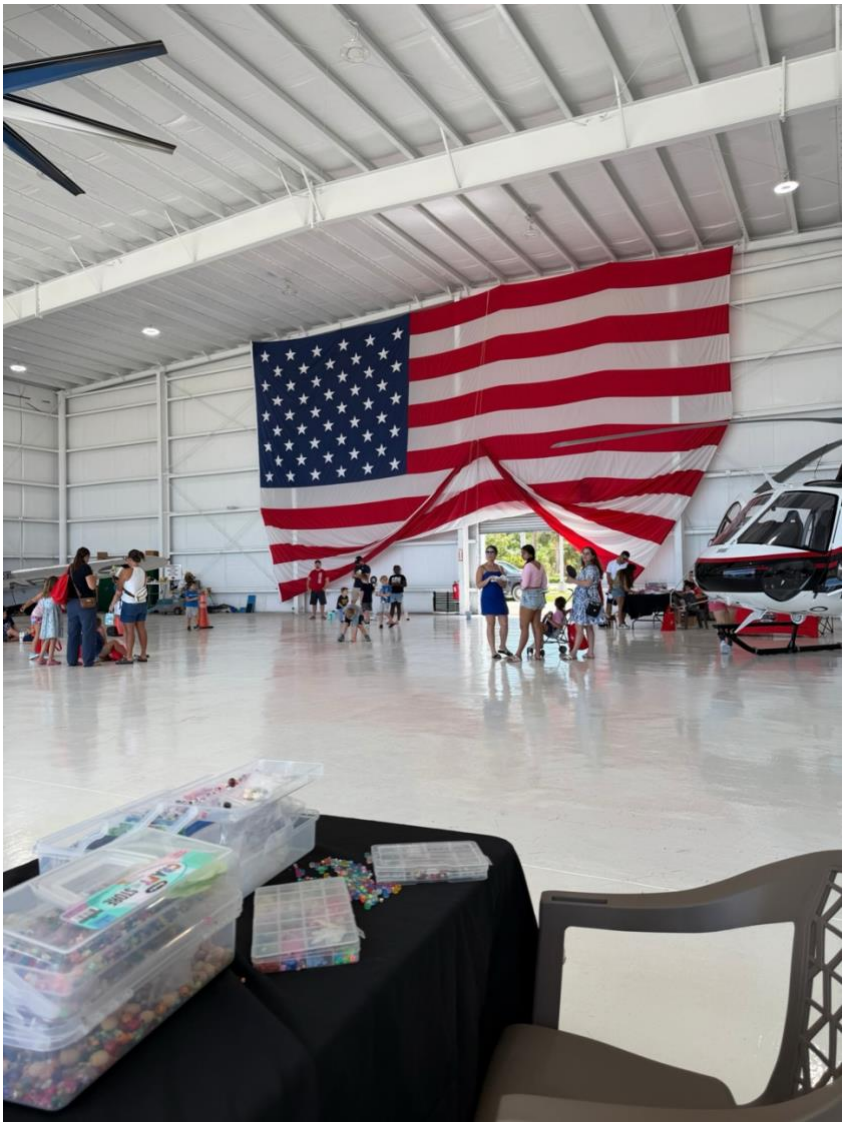

Girls in Aviation Day is celebrated nationwide in September.

It is an opportunity to meet and talk with women who are actively employed in all areas of the industry. In most aviation occupations, women make up less than 20% of the workforce.

Female pilots greeted the community alongside officials from Florida Keys Mosquito Control District; Florida Keys Flight Academy; Monroe County Board of County Commissioners; Marathon City Council; and Trauma Star Air Ambulance.

Additionally, MTH hosted a bracelet-making station, providing an opportunity for creativity and discussion about aviation.
