Florida Keys Aqueduct Authority (FKAA) is asking for assistance from the public to rebuild water reserves by conserving water.

Dear Customer,

Florida Keys Aqueduct has reduced output from our Florida City plant, to relieve pressure on our system. We are asking for assistance from the public, in an effort to conserve water and rebuild our reserves.

FKAA is generating enough water to service our customers. However, we are limited in our ability to build our reserves; which have been depleted as a result of the leaks that occurred last week.

No conservation is too small. This includes less time running irrigation systems, faucets, showers, washing of boats, vehicles, etc. Any and all effort is greatly appreciated during this time, as we attempt to rebuild our water supply.

Thank you,

Greg Veliz
